Natural Resources Departments of Railways Want Facts of District

The meeting of the board of trade on Tuesday evening was well attended. President DeCew occupied the chair.

A communication from G. A. S. Bell suggested that a drinking fountain be established on the Royal bank corner. In the discussion that followed it developed that the post office department had under consideration the erection of a fountain for man and beast at the government building, and it was decided to hold the matter in abeyance until the department took action.

A communication from R. F. Tolmie, deputy minister of mines, stated that the provincial government maintained at Victoria an assay office where quantitative and qualitative tests were made free of charge to prospectors. The members of the board were of the opinion that a similar office should be established in the interior of the province. The matter was referred to the Associated Boards of Trade.

The following is Mr. Tolmie's letter in full:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 26th ult., containing a copy of a resolution passed at your last regular meeting, requesting the government to establish assay offices at central points convenient to the ore districts throughout the province, where assays of mineral can be obtained free or at a nominal charge."

"In reply I beg to quote from the 1912 annual report of the minister of mines, page 31, regarding the assay office, as follows: 'In addition to the above quantitative work, a large number of qualitative determinations, or tests, were made in connection with the identification and classification of rocks or minerals sent to the bureau for reports. Of these no count was kept, nor were any fees charged, as it is the established custom of the bureau to examine and test qualitatively, without charge, samples of minerals sent in from any part of the province, and to give a report of the same. This has been done for the purpose of encouraging the search for new or rare minerals or ores, and to assist prospectors and others in the discovery of new mining districts, by enabling them to have determined, free of cost, the nature and probable value of any rock they may find. In making these free determinations, the bureau asks that the locality from which the sample was obtained be given by the sender.'

A. D. Smith, an aviator, wrote from Spokane that he expected to be in the vicinity of Grand Forks about the 1st of July, and would have some open dates for engagements to make exhibition aeroplane flights. Referred to Gateway Lodge No. 45, I.O.O.F.

A communication from W. D. N. McIntyre, of the provincial fisheries department, gave a definite refusal to the board's request that Christina lake be stocked with bass fingerlings. The secretary reported that the board at present had 111 members. A number of bills were ordered paid. The president and Dr. Acres were appointed a committee to interview the city council next Monday night in reference to the city paying a portion of the expense for the entertainment of the Canadian Pacific railway party. The president expressed the opinion that the money had been well expended.

A vote of thanks was tendered to those who had furnished automobile at the entertainment of the C. P. R. officials, and also to Mr. Niles for the use of the residence and the lawn on the Covert estate.

A. O. Frache reported that the floriculturists of the city had decided not to hold a flower show this summer owing to the lateness of the season.

The publicity committee was instructed to forward to the natural resources departments of the Canadian Pacific and Great Northern railways an account of the resources of the district, and also to supply them with a list of industrial enterprises needed in the city.

The secretary was instructed to write to the secretary of the Chabko Mika carnival in Nelson, requesting him to set aside a Boundary day, and also to suggest to him the advisability of his urging the other towns in this district of co-operating with this city to make the turn-out on that day a success. It is the present intention of the board to run an excursion train to the celebration.

Some of the members of the board were anxious to learn when the provincial government intended to enforce the laws passed at the late session of the legislature for the regulation of the members of the Doukhobor colony. It was pointed out that at present the children of the colony were employed in pulling weeds in the fields instead of being sent to school. The board decided to take no action until the next term of school.

The secretary was instructed to write to the superintendent of lands at Victoria for information regarding government lands in this district available for homesteading or pre-emption, and also to request him to send any plans or maps of the same that he might have.

Mr. Parsons, of Greenwood, having severed his connection with the British Columbia Copper company, left this week to accept a position with the Granby company at Hidden Creek.

There are 1000 men at work on the Kettle Valley grade between Osprey lake and Princeton.

FRANKLIN CAMP IS VERY LIVELY

Railway Officials Inspect the Mines—Semi-Weekly Stage Line Started

A party of ten, composed of W. O. Miller and H. B. Walker, of the Canadian Pacific railway, and H. C. Keran, C. A. S. Atwood, Fred Clark, Ernest Lane, F. M. Kerby, W. J. Penrose and Messrs. Jackson and Brock, of this city, went up to the Union mine in Gloucester camp on Sunday in Burns & O'Reilly's big touring car and another machine.

The visitors were greatly impressed with the immense ore showing at the mine. Mr. Miller expressed the opinion that all the camp required was capital to develop it, and he would use his influence to see that money for this purpose was brought in. It is Mr. Miller's intention to again visit the camp in company with Vice President Bury sometime during the latter part of July. In the meantime he will send Mr. Archibald, the C. P. R. company's mining engineer, to examine the camp.

Franklin, the next big mining camp, had a decidedly lively appearance last Sunday. Over fifty persons were served dinner at the hotel there on that day.

Leo Mader and Murt Carroll returned on Wednesday from Franklin camp, where they have been developing their mineral claim, the Leader, located about three miles this side the Union mine. Mr. Mader brought down some fine samples of peacock copper and grey ore, of which he is having assays made. He says that they have fifteen feet of this ore, and that there is at present enough ore on the dump to start shipping on a small scale.

A dispatch from Victoria says the provincial government has decided to send an expert to investigate the mineral resources of the Franklin camp, north of Grand Forks, and has selected A. G. Larson, the well known mining engineer of Vancouver, and formerly of Rossland, to undertake the work. The action of the government is taken in connection with the extension of the Kettle Valley line to Franklin camp, the necessity for which is being urged by the people of Grand Forks.

Mr. Larson will arrive in Grand Forks today, and it is expected that he will be accompanied by Ernest Miller, member for this riding. A meeting of the industrial committee of the board of trade was held in the board rooms last night, when arrangements were made for the reception of Mr. Larson.

An enterprise that will do much to assist in developing Franklin and Gloucester camps and the entire North Fork country, as well as greatly adding to the convenience of mining men and other travellers who may wish to inspect the mineral resources of the district, was started this week when Thomas Tween the Grand Forks and Dan-

Funkley inaugurated a twice-a-week stage service between this city and Gloucester. At present there is a great deal of travel between the two points, and as the season advances the undertaking should prove quite profitable. Besides carrying passengers, the stage will also carry a limited amount of light freight, such as ice and fresh fruit and vegetables. The stage will leave this city every Tuesday and Friday. Returning, it leaves Gloucester every Wednesday and Saturday. Mr. Funkley has also taken over the hotel at Gloucester. Anyone visiting the camp will find first class accommodations at this house.

$8000 EXHIBITION BUILDING FOR FAIR

Will Have a floor Space of About 10,000 Square Feet

At a meeting of the directors of the Grand Forks Agricultural association, held in Secretary Hadden's office on Wednesday evening, it was decided to commence as soon as possible the construction of an $8,000 exhibition building. The building will be in the form of a cross, and will consist of five sections, each 40x40 feet. It will be located near the old entrance to the fair grounds, and will have a floor space of approximately 10,000 square feet. It is estimated that it will require six weeks to erect the building. When it is completed the directors intend to give the biggest dance in it ever held in the Boundary country for the purpose of raising funds for the fair.

W. M. DeCew and Stanley Davis were elected members of the directors.

The directors decided to call on the ladies of Grand Forks for a display of fancy work and home cooking at the next fall fair. An entire section of the new building will be devoted to this exhibit, and the directors desire to turn the management of this department over to the ladies.

After transacting a large amount of routine business, the meeting adjourned.

ville teams, Grand Forks won by a score of 14 to 10. In spite of the scorching sun, there was a big crowd on the bleachers to witness the contest.

J. D. Moore, of Kaslo, formerly road superintendent for the Kaslo riding, has been appointed bridge inspector for Kaslo, Ymir, Fernie, Columbia, Slocan, Cranbrook, Greenwood and Grand Forks ridings, with headquarters at Kaslo. Mr. Moore formally entered upon his duties last week.

George F. Raulston, aged 75 years, an old prospector of the Boundary country who has resided on Fourth of July creek for a number of years, died at the Snyder hospital in Republic last week. Mr. Raulston was captain of the 24th New York cavalry volunteers in the American civil war, and later was promoted to captain of the 10th regulars, United States cavalry. The remains were buried at Republic.

Telephone Talk has a Vancouver number this month, published in view of the gathering there of the Pacific coast ad. men and the lumbermen. The magazine is profusely illustrated with views of up-to-date Vancouver, with two large reproductions of the waterfront and of the city looking over the inlet. Some contrast pictures of twenty years ago and the present indicate the immense progress made in that time. The number is quite a souvenir, and copies were distributed among the visitors to the convention.

Paid Back

At a station on a Canadian railway there was a very impudent-looking clerk, and, like most impudent fellows he considered himself very smart. It was race day, and the booking-office was besieged by many seedy-looking characters. One of these put down a quarter slightly defaced, which the clerk looked at minutely, rattled on the counter, and then pushed back with the remark:

"It's not genuine. Like yourself, it is the worse for wear."

This angered the next passenger to book, who got back in his change a ten cent piece with a hole in it, and on his expressing an unwillingness to accept it, the official behind the pig-eon-hole became very annoyed and flatly refused to take it back. But the gentleman maintained it was defaced worse than the seedy-looking fellow's quarter.

Meanwhile, the argument was causing considerable impatience among those who were waiting to book, and presently a very good-looking young lady, next to the protesting gentleman said:

"Take the coin, sir, and I'll give you another ten cent piece or it."

"This done, the lady said, "to the booking-clerk: Single to Winnipeg, and among the coins she put down was the ten cent piece in dispute, which the clerk had to accept amid the guffaws of the bystanders."

Norah Wasn't Alarmed

Norah said her mistress severely, if you have that policeman in the kitchen again I shall speak to him.

"Go as far as ye like, Mum, said Norah, but yez never git him. We are to be married next Tuesday."

How He Got In

I understand Whipple has adopted a political career.

It was the other way about. A political machine adopted Whipple, and now his career is assured.

How He Did It

How do you always keep the office clock right? the foreman was asked.

I set it in the morning by the time the boss arrives and set it again at noon and night by the time the help quits.

Proof

It is wrong for an old man to marry a young fool.

But how is he to know that she is a fool?

When she says yes to his proposal, he ought to know.

Prof.—A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer.

Stude—No wonder so many of us flunk in our exams.

But How Would He Do It?

Mrs. Ashley approached the physician anxiously. How is my husband this morning, Doctor? she asked.

He is a very sick man. Mrs. Ashley, answered the physician impressively.

Oh, Doctor! You don't—

Rest easy, Madam, said the doctor, my treatment will surely straighten him out in less than a week.

She Knew

Fashionable lady—Give me five yards of this goods, please.

Clerk—But madam will not need more than half a yard for a veil.

Fashionable lady—I don't want it for a veil. I want it for a dinner gown.

COULD NOT PUT HANDS IN WATER

Salt Rheum Began with Itching and Burning. Watery Pimples. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

I'Anse à Brilliant, Que.—"I suffered with salt rheum for nine months. It began by itching and burning and my hands broke out in watery pimples and I could not sleep, only scratch my hands and they would bleed. The pimples were small and white, about the size of pin heads filled with water. I could not put my hands in water at all."

"I tried _____ and _____ but found no relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands after washing them with the Cuticura Soap and in two weeks they were perfectly cured." (Signed) Miss Bridget A. Bland, May 17, 1913.

FOR PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

The following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold everywhere. For liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

In the Public Eye

After all, the train was only forty minutes behind time, so the station-master was perfectly justified in feeling pleased with himself, the railway, and the world in general.

A solitary waiting passenger was morbidly weighing himself at an automatic machine, and when he stepped off the train the jovial official proceeded to talk to him.

"Wonderful thing the railway system is!" he chirped. "I do really believe that even the general public is at last beginning to realize the marvelous improvements that have taken place on this line in recent years!"

"That's true, answered the morbid one. I know of no line that has so many things constantly in the public eye as this one!"

The station-master was delighted. I am more than glad to hear you say so, sir, he chuckled, rubbing his hands together. And would you mind naming them?

The waiting passenger looked pensively down the platform. "Cinders!" said he.

Brain Exercise

There has been serious trouble in a certain school. One of the teachers said he was no believer in the old hackneyed system of teaching.

What is wanted, said he, is something which will make the children think and reason for themselves. Mere addition and subtraction are too mechanical.

In accordance with his ideas, he gave his pupils one hundred questions of which the following is a specimen:

What is it that can go up a spout down, but cannot go down a spout up?

The brain fever hospitals thereabouts were full of children for weeks afterwards, and the teacher was dismissed without a character, yet the answer to the riddle was very simple: An umbrella.

What he Said

Counsel—I insist on an answer to my question. You have not told me all the conversation I want to know all that passed between you and Mr. Jones on the occasion to which you refer.

Reluctant witness—I have told you everything of any consequence.

You have told me you said to him: Jones, this case will get into the court some day. Now, I want to know what he said in reply.

"Well, he said, Brown, there isn't anything in this business that I'm ashamed of, and if any snooping little yee-hawing, four-by-six, gimlet eyed lawyer, with half a pound of brains and sixteen ounces of jaw, ever wants to know what I've been talking about, just tell him."

The Joke on Father

She had refused him, and he was all in.

Reconsider, Annie, he begged. If not, I'll blow my bra's out.

Huh, said Annie, that would be a good joke on Father, for he thinks you haven't any.

In the Vernacular

Bubs—Well, how are your New Year's resolutions wearing?

Dubbs—Fine! Had one little puncture, but nothing like a regular blow-out.

What the Teacher Taught Him

The small boy had just returned home after a most tumultuous day at school.

What lesson, asked his father, was the most impressed on you today by the teacher?

Dat I need a thicker pair of pants.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiffer never have any arguments.

How does that happen?

Mr. Whiffer won't argue.

The poor woman!

There once was a fresh from Dakota, who pined for his girl, so he wrote; But the poor fellow died.

When the dear thing replied That she'd got a man with a mola.

Von Ratz—Yer know, I haven't paid out a cent for repairs on my old car.

O'Catz—Yes, so the owner of De Stew's garage told me.

A Free Thinker

Tommy—Paw, what is a free thinker?

Paw—An unmarried man, my son.

Couldn't Stand the Shock

Maude—Poor Mrs. Frales fainted on a street car.

Edith—Crowded car, I suppose, and the poor thing had to stand up until she collapsed.

Maude—No; on the contrary, every man in the car arose and offered his seat when she entered, and she swooned.

A woman was listening to a longshoreman as he was delivering himself of a perfect torrent of picturesque language.

My man, she said, where did you learn such awful language?

Learn it, Ma'm? asked the man in surprise. You don't learn it; it's a gift.

Next Move

He—Since you lost that bet, I think I can claim the forfeit.

She—Really I don't know what you mean; and besides, some one might see us.

The Man for the Place

Mr. Owealot—One of your references says that you served a term of 30 days in jail. What does that mean?

Applicant—Oh, that was for throwing a collector who dumped my employer down the stairs.

Mr. Owealot—Good, you are engaged.

The hotel patron had waited fully an hour for a very slow waiter to serve two courses.

Now, brother, he said to the waiter, can you bring me some tomato salad?

Yes, sir, said the waiter.

And, continued the customer, while you're away you might send me a postal card every now and then.

IN LUCK

Mrs. Henpeck—I suppose you think it smart to talk back to your wife!

Mr. Henpeck—You bet I do! It is not often I get the chance.

What's your wife's brother doing now?

Mr. Henpeck—I've lived with us ever since we were married.

SAFETY AND SURE

The Reason

A little girl of seven or eight years stood one day before a closed gate as a gentleman slowly walked by. The little girl turned and said to him:

"Will you please open this gate for me?"

The gentleman did so. Then he said kindly:

"Why, my child, couldn't you open the gate yourself?"

"Because," said the little girl, the paint's not dry yet."

The Lesser Evil

Briggs—You must have a lot of trouble keeping your wife dressed up in the height of style.

Griggs—Ye, but it's nothing to the trouble I'd have if I didn't.

An Unpopular Name

Miss De Vere, said the lady who was entertain'd the popular actress, would you mind telling me what your real name is?

My real name? Oh, yes. It is Tubbs—Sylvia Tubbs. But I hope you will not introduce me to your guests by it.

Oh, no, you needn't be afraid. I'm just as much ashamed of it as you are.

There is no more effective vermifuge on the market than Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

Chance to Escape

Papa, now that you have bought Laura a piano, you might buy me a pony.

Why so, Tommy?

Then at least I could go riding when she is playing.

The Bird and the Hyphen

A teacher in a lower grade was instructing her pupils in the use of a hyphen.

That's right, encouragingly remarked the teacher. Now Paul tell me why we put a hyphen in bird-cage.

It's for the bird to sit on, was the startling rejoinder.

Single or Double

Gray is certainly a most adaptable talker, said a man. I saw him meet a man from Iowa the other day and a moment he was launched on a talk about corn. A half-hour afterward he met Thorndike of Boston, and he knew more about raising beans than did the Bostonian.

That's all right, said Smith. But suppose he had met both men together what would he have talked about then?

Why, succulish.

SAFE AND SURE

FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are a safe and sure medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and cure all the minor ills of babyhood and childhood.

Concerning them, Mrs. Duncan Joy, Vancouver, B.C., writes: "I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house and give them to my little one whenever needed, as I think them the safest and surest remedy a mother can give her children. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 5 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PERHAPS the quickest way to obtain permanent peace in Mexico would be to arrange for an armistice until the mediators agree on a man for provisional president.

WHEN the men who make the laws, and the officers employed to enforce them, are the first to violate them, there is little inducement for the ordinary man to remain a law-abiding citizen.

THE British Columbia government might replenish its empty treasury if the peace officers enforced the law against men under the influence of liquor driving motor cars. At present this type of law-breaking is viewed with complacent indifference.

IT won't do you much good to keep your eye on Franklin camp, unless you invest a few dollars there.

Residents who are tempted by a slick advertisement, circulars or in person by some agent to buy shares in some one of the hundreds of oil concerns that have sprung up in Alberta within the past few weeks, are again reminded that investment of that nature is something it is best, both for the good of the pocketbook and one's peace of mind, to leave severely alone. So many here have been accustomed to give the merry ha ha to buyers of local wildcat mining stocks of the boom period, that they cannot very well afford to run a chance of getting stung in the oil game, in which buying stock at long range and in the dark or on the recommendation of a selling agent, is quite as risky as dabbling in mining stock in the same way. Nearly every one that is buying oil stock in the Calgary fields today is gambling, because they do not really expect to get their returns from the oil produced but from the increase in value of their shares. Under such conditions the slump will be an awful hard one when it does come, and it will come even though there be success achieved in the finding of oil in commercial quantities in Alberta. When the slump does come the field will be strewn with the slain and the wounded. Unpaid grocery bills and meat bills and all sorts of bills will be a part of the wreckage and the promoters will have all the money, except that which they have spent on auto riding and on wine suppers. Let the merry carnival go on but see that you keep out of it—Kaslo Kootenian.

fold, he has already won for himself a secure place as a member of the great company who have been the nation builders of the Dominion." The above undoubtedly was written in all sincerity, the conviction being all the deeper because of what has transpired since the hand of the nation builder was arrested and rendered temporarily impotent as a consequence of an agitation in which our Montreal contemporary played a prominent part. The Star probably has learned by dear-bought experience, as most of us have, that it would have been well for the country had the man to whom it pays tribute, and who furnished evidence during the term he was in power that he had learned something during his forty years' experience, been given an opportunity to complete his work. If there were a premier in power today in whom the people had implicit confidence there would be no reason for the many appeals being published in the press for the public to take heart of grace and have confidence in the future of the country.—Victoria Times.

Live Stock Must Be Kept

In any scheme to maintain or build up soil fertility, crop rotation, including the growing of legumes, is vital but not sufficient. Clovers put the soil in better physical condition, so that the plant food in it becomes quickly available to the next crop. There is a danger then that we may mistake a more productive soil for more fertile soil and be inclined to give too much credit to the growing of the clover and not enough to the feeding of it to farm animals. No matter what crops are grown, if they are all sold away from the farm, the soil will become exhausted. Live stock must be kept. Nature has provided a balance between animal and plant life, and man cannot long disobey nature's decrees.

When every particle of manure is saved and applied to the land, there is money in live stock, in dairy products, in beef, in the annual increase, and most of all in the next year's crop. According to figures of the United States department of agriculture the yield per acre of corn in Kansas dropped from 34.3 bushels in the decade 1870-79 to 21.3 in the decade 1890-99. Kansas has also grown large quantities of alfalfa, but the corn and alfalfa have both been sold away from the farms and decreased yields have resulted. In Illinois, which is a stockraising and stockkeeping state, the yields have actually increased. It is a signif icant fact that the stock states show the smallest losses in crop yields. This is true of a state and the same principle applies to the individual farmer.

PRINTING OF QUALITY

That is the Kind turned out by the Sun Print Shop

High Grade stock is essential to Printing of Quality, as is also new, clean-cut type faces, but both are of little value if the work is not done by a man who knows how --the three factors combined producing that quality of printing which receives the approval of the customer

Our stock is the best that money and experience can procure, and in flat papers contains many lines of white wove, bond and linen finish papers suitable for producing letterheads, memos, circulars, blank forms and all kinds of business stationary of the highest quality.

Several new series of the latest type faces have recently been added to our plant, which give a great variety of type styles to choose from to meet the requirements of our customers.

Our work is done in our own office and is under the supervision of a man engaged in the printing business for the past twenty years, twelve of which have been devoted to the requirement of the printing purchasers of this city and surrounding district

If you have not already favored us with an order for Printing of Quality, better let us submit samples and quote prices on that office stationery you will shortly be requiring.

$25.00 FOR A LETTER

Can You Write One?

Thirteen Prizes to be Awarded in a Letter Writing Competition

Some years ago the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., offered a series of prizes to residents of the Western Provinces for the best letters describing cures wrought by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Hundreds of letters were submitted in this competition and yet there must have been thousands of other users of the pills who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to win a prize. To all these another letter writing competition is offered. Thousands of cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have never been reported. These will furnish the material for the letter to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

THE PRIZES:

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 1st day of March, 1914, from residents of the Western provinces, on the subject, "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $10.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received; a prize of $5.00 for the third best letter, and ten prizes of $2.00 each for the next best ten letters.

THE CONDITIONS:

The cure or benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or one that has come under his or her personal observation.

More than one cure may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true.

Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the cure of some person other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose cure is described as a guarantee of the truth of the statement made.

The writer of each letter must state the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement.

Unless writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award.

It is understood that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. shall have the right to publish any letter entered in this contest if they desire to do so whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close on March 1st, 1914, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a cure write our letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:

His Choice

McMaster was a business man. He was walking with a beautiful girl in a wild New England wood.

What is your favorite flower, Mr. McMaster? the girl asked softly.

McMaster thought a moment, then cleared his throat and answered: Well, I believe I like the whole wheat best.

It Sounded Like It

A young girl from a country town went to a city boarding school much against the wishes of her father, who thought she would be spoiled by city ways.

Soon she wrote in one of her letters: I am in love with ping-pong.

The mother read the letter aloud to her father, who turned angrily upon her, saying: Well, you see I was right. I know no good would come of her going to the city. Now, you see she has got in with one of those danged Chinamen.

NERVILINE H.S. NEVER FAILED TO CURE

Don't suffer! Nerviline is your relief. Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of it, will ease that drawn, tight feeling over your ribs, will destroy the pain, will have you smiling and happy in no time.

"I caught cold last week while motoring," writes P. T. Mallory, from Linden. "My chest was full of congestion, my throat was mighty sore and I had the fiercest itch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep, and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my travelling kit, and I will never be without it."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, or you can easily get the 25c. trial size from any dealer.

Marjorie—But, my dear, I happened to know the correspondent.

The Exception
First married man—Is there ever an occasion when everything at your dinner-table is stone-cold?

Second married man—No, not everything. We always manage to have a heated argument.

Quite Enough

If a young man takes his best girl to the opera, spends $5. on a supper after the performance, and then takes her home in a taxi, should he kiss her good night?

I don't think she ought to expect it. Seems to me he has done enough for her.

To Asthma Sufferers Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy comes like a helping hand to a sinking swimmer. It gives new life and hope by curing his trouble—something he has come to believe impossible. Its benefit is too evident to be questioned—it is its own best argument. If you suffer from asthma get this time-tried remedy and find help like thousands of others.

Every One
Everyone has some secret sorrow, said the philosophic friend. Yes, even the fattest and jolliest of us has a skeleton in his midst.

Foolish Query
Kitty—Jack said last night he'd kiss me or die in the attempt.

May—Good gracious! And did he kiss you?

Kitty—Well, you haven't heard of his death, have you?

The Penalty
Do you know the penalty for perjury? asked the cross-examining lawyer sternly.

Yes, sir, said the stubborn witness.

Well, sir, what is the penalty for perjury? thundered the lawyer.

It's getting elected to the assembly and going on a lecture tour, answered the witness.

The Sweet Thing
Fair visitor—Oh, don't trouble to see me to the door!

Hostess—No trouble at all, dear. It is a pleasure.

George's Telegram

George was famous for being late at his appointments. He was engaged to be married to a young lady in a neighboring city, and when the day of the ceremony arrived George, as usual, did not appear. The bride was on the verge of nervous prostration when the following telegram was received from the missing bridegroom:

Dear Helen,—Missed the early train. Will arrive on the 4.31. Don't get married until I get there.

George.

TROUBLE WITH

THE EYES

The effects of low vitality on the eyesight are little understood, or fewer people would rush to the optician when trouble comes, instead of first trying to get the nervous system into good condition.

When the nerves become exhausted, about the first indication is weakness of the optic nerve, and consequent eye trouble and nervous headaches. The strain on the optic nerve, in continually adjusting and focusing the lens of the eye is enormous, and when the nervous force in the body is diminished the trouble is first felt in the sight and by severe headaches.

By forming new, red corpuscles in the blood, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instils new vitality into the optic nerve, as well as the other nerves of the body. Headache is not merely relieved, but the cause is removed. Sight improves, and instead of the annoyance and makeshift practice of wearing glasses, the eyes are strengthened and the general health improved in every way.

Force of Habit

Something I can do for you sir? said the floorwalker to a man anxiously looking up and down every aisle.

Well, yes, answered the man; I seem to have lost my wife.

Third floor, third side, said the floorwalker; you'll find a full line of mourning goods there.

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmeleo's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

To Measure Coal in a Bin

A solid cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 93 pounds. When broken for use it weighs about 54 pounds. Bituminous coal, when broken up for use, weighs about 50 pounds. The consequent rule for the approximate measurement of coal in a bin or box is to multiply the length in feet by the height in feet and again by the breadth in feet, and this result by 54 for anthracite coal, or by 50 for bituminous coal. The result will equal the number of tons divided by 2000.

The Gibson Robbery

A Smart Piece of Detective Work

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"Mr. Harley?" inquired the white-haired, elderly man, stepping into the private office of the junior member of the law firm.

"I am Rogers," said that young man courteously. "My partner, Mr. Harley, has not yet returned from lunch. Did you wish to see him particularly?"

"No. Either one will do," returned the other hastily. "I was directed here by my friend Dr. Brown. He gave me to understand that your firm did a little detective work now and then."

"Hardly that," returned Rogers, placing a chair for his client and regaining his own seat, "but in the course of our practice we have chanced upon a number of curious cases that we were fortunate enough to unravel. As a matter of fact, we are rather fond of that sort of thing, although it is not a branch of our business."

The visitor frowned thoughtfully for a moment and then looked sharply at the young lawyer.

"In spite of what you say perhaps I can prevail upon you to undertake a delicate matter for me. It is in the line of detective work, but it requires unusual tact, something that the average detective does not possess. This is not the mere shadowing of a suspected party. It is an endeavor to find a thief among a group of people, none of whom could possibly be guilty of theft."

He leaned back and smiled at Rogers' look of dismay.

"Tough proposition, eh?"

"Rather. It sounds interesting. Without consulting my partner I'll say that we will take it up as a recreation after business hours."

"Done!" returned the visitor heartily. Drawing a card case from his pocket, he laid a bit of pasteboard on Rogers' desk and leaned back in his chair.

"My name is Gibson—James Addison Gibson," he said, nodding toward the card, "and my house was robbed last evening of $10,000 worth of jewels."

Rogers sat up in his chair and listened intently.

"It happened at my country home at Shorecliffe. My wife and I were entertaining six friends from Manhattan, all people of refinement and impeccable honesty."

"During the evening Mrs. Gibson mentioned that she had just received a necklace of diamonds as a birthday gift from me, and she brought out the jewel case and displayed the necklace to her friends. It was greatly admired, and I was about to close the case and replace it in my safe in the library when both my wife and myself were summoned to the telephone by an urgent message."

"Was the message really an urgent one?"

"It proved to be an error. There was some mistake about the number, and the Mr. and Mrs. Gibson called for me, my brother and his wife, who lived over on the East road."

"So your absence from the room was really unnecessary?"

"So, it appears."

"Did any one enter or leave the room during your absence?"

"I cannot find that any one remembers. I have questioned the servants, and all are unanimous in the protest that they had not entered the room that evening."

"Who brought the message from the telephone?"

"Pun Shah, my Hindu butler."

Rogers was silent for a long time, and then he asked one more question. "Did Pun Shah enter the room when he called you and Mrs. Gibson outside, or did he stand in the doorway?"

"He merely stood in the doorway and gave the message."

"May I have the names of the six guests who were present that evening?"

Mr. Gibson nodded.

Rogers drew forth a pencil and notebook. "Please give a brief description of each one as you mention the name, not forgetting to give me the chief characteristics that mark each individual."

"First, there was Rodney Stone, the poet, a dreamy young chap, with his lovely wife, who is quite content to shine in the reflection of his glory."

"Then came Dr. Latimer, a brilliant physician, now driven to death with an immense practice. If he keeps on his present pace without cessation from work he will end in a madhouse. Besides Dr. Latimer, there was Mrs. Finelli, the prima donna, who, as you no doubt have heard, possesses an emotional temperament as well as a wonderful voice. Last of all were the Huxfords, father and son, busy Wall street men, almost too fagged out to recollect what the necklace looked like five minutes after my wife had displayed it."

"Those were the six who were alone with the jewels?"

"Yes."

"And they are all unanimous in saying that not one person entered the room during your absence?"

"Yes, although it is singular that Miss Finelli and Mrs. Rodney Stone both declare that Pun Shah stood in the doorway for a moment and regarded the company rather strangely for a few seconds. Miss Finelli resented the impertinence and made a gesture of dismissal. After that the man vanished. As a matter of fact, Mr. Rogers, not one of my six guests can recollect the topic they were discussing when I entered the room and discovered that the diamonds were missing."

"Now, what am I to do? The case is a singular one, and I do not care to tell the police into the matter, although the loss is a greater one than I can afford to withstand. The gift to my wife was rather an important matter financially." He smiled ruefully.

Mr. Rogers put up his notebook and donned his hat.

"Where is Pun Shah now, Mr. Gibson?" he asked.

"Down at Shorecliffe, I presume. He was there at noon when I motored up to town."

"Can you take me to Shorecliffe at once?"

"Certainly; my car is at the door."

Rogers dictated a brief message for his partner and left the office with Mr. Gibson. In five minutes they were spinning toward the Thirty-fourth street ferry to Long Island City.

Shorecliffe was a handsome estate on the north shore of the sound, and Mr. Gibson and the young lawyer reached the gates within an hour after leaving Rogers' office.

A grave-eyed Hindu in snowy turban admitted them to the house, and Rogers was conscious of a peculiar sensation along his spinal column as he met the man's piercing glance.

He felt in that moment that Pun Shah knew the reason for his coming as well as many other things that he would not divulge.

He followed his host into the library and listened intently while Mr. Gibson pointed out the table where the jewels had lain during his absence at the telephone. The table was between two French windows that opened upon the front veranda.

"Were the windows open last evening?" asked Rogers.

"They were both closed. It was chilly and we were enjoying a fire on the hearth."

Rogers was silent for a long time. His eyes wandered from one spot to another. Once they gazed the corner of Pun Shah's snowy turban outside the door, and again he was sure that the man's jolly eyes were regarding him from a heavily bearded curtain that separated the library from a smaller adjoining study.

"Well, Mr. Rogers, I am wondering if you exonerate all my friends. My theory does not permit of suspicion pointing to one of them," remarked Mr. Gibson at last.

"My theory, Mr. Gibson, is that all six guests were accessory to the deed."

"What? My dear sir?"

"Wait a moment, sir. I did say that they were accessories to the deed, but it was quite unconsciously so on their part. Have you several strong men on the place, men whom you can trust?"

"Yes. There is Baker, the gardener, with his assistants, besides my chauffeur and the second man, four altogether. Why, may I ask?"

"Please summon them to this room, and after that," continued Rogers in a low tone, "have the man, Pun Shah, sent in."

Mr. Gibson smiled grimly. "So that's it, is it? I couldn't see how the rascal had a chance. Excuse me, if you please, while I send for the men."

He left the room and Rogers waited there alone. Presently he heard a stealthy footstep behind his chair and a hot breath on his neck. He jumped just in time to escape the wicked knife of Pun Shah, whose dark face was convulsed with anger.

Rogers had whipped out a revolver, and so the two were standing facing each other when Mr. Gibson returned with his four servants.

"What is this, Pun Shah?" demanded his master quickly, but the man only bowed his head in silence.

"Your man was about to kill me," said Rogers coolly, "because I have discovered that he is the one who stole your diamonds."

"Is it possible? Pun Shah, what have you to say?"

The Hindu fastened a look of deadly hatred on the young lawyer and, snatching off his turban, drew from its fold the string of diamonds that had so mysteriously disappeared. He flung the ornaments on the floor at his master's feet and with a soft, gliding movement vanished from the room.

No one made a movement to follow, and an instant later they saw the flicker of his white turban as he disappeared down the staircase.

Mr. Gibson dismissed his servants with a gesture, dropped the string of diamonds in his coat pocket, and faced Rogers.

"How did you fasten the crime upon Pun Shah so quickly? I had evidence that no one saw him enter the room, and?"

Rogers put up a hand. "It is easily explained. Your butler possesses unusual hypnotic powers. He simply hypnotized the six guests in your drawing room, took the diamonds from beneath their noses and disappeared. They might have been puzzled by the incident which made them accomplices in his crime, but they were quite innocent of any wrongdoing. In fact, they didn't know what had happened after he left the room."

Mr. Gibson sat down and drew his check book toward him.

"This is such a gratifying exhibition of your cleverness, Mr. Rogers, that I must show my appreciation in a substantial way. Here is a check for $1,000. Shall I make it out to you personally or to your firm?"

"To Harley & Rogers," said the junior partner dizzily. "Harley ought to have something to make up for losing the fun of this job."

LARGEST KNOWN ICE CAVE.

Wonders of the Frozen Grotto in the Dachstein Mountains.

A few years ago some members of the Austrian Speleological society discovered in the Dachstein mountains some caverns which are among the largest in Europe. One of these grottoes, the longitudinal axis of which is fully 6,500 feet long, moreover turned out to offer additional interest by its truly enormous ice masses and was found to be the largest known ice cave in the world.

Though a scorching sun may be burning outside on the bare mountain rock, there is always an icy wind blowing through this underworld, freezing everything within its reach. Only sometimes, when the outside temperature ranges between 32 and 41 degrees C. and a comparatively warm rain penetrates through the fissures of the rock, entering right into the cavern, will there be a temporary calm and distinct melting of the ice.

The Dachstein ice cave comprises several domes filled with ice, which communicate with one another through a number of frozen galleries. An ice crevice 90 feet deep and 116 feet in width traverses the floor of the cavern 105 feet from the entrance. Gigantic ice pillars were found to tower on both edges of this chasm, in the depth of which there unfolds a fairy-like ice scenery. Beyond the abyss the cavern widens out into a mighty dome (Tristan's dome, as it is called), where a plain ice sheet reaches from one wall to the other, carrying ice stalagmites of the most fantastic shapes.—Scientific American.

A Hopeless Job.

Gordon Le Sueur in his book on South Africa tells an excellent story about Cecil Rhodes.

Rhodes was very careless in the matter of dress. On one occasion an old and favorite coat of his was sent to be cleaned and mended. Soon after it came back just as it had been sent, together with this note from the cleaners:

"Dear Sir—Herewith the Right Hon. D. J. Rhodes' coat, uncleaned and unended. We regret that all we can do with the garment is to make a new coat to match the buttons."

Wanted the Salads.

Tommy went out to dine at a friend's house one evening. When the soup was brought Tommy did not touch his, and the hostess, looking over, said:

"Why, Tommy, dear, what's the matter? Aren't you hungry tonight?"

"Yes," replied Tommy, "I'm quite hungry, but I'm not thirsty."—Judge.

TOMB OF JONAH.

Mothers Look Upon It as Sacred and Guard It From Intrusion.

The site of Nineveh is almost perfectly level, but adjoining the western wall are two huge mounds that conceal the palaces of the greatest kings of Nineveh. On the lower or southern mound stand a mosque and a village of considerable size, says a correspondent of the "Christian Herald."

The village is named Nebi Yunus, or the Prophet Jonah, for the mosque contains the tomb in which Jonah is said to have been buried. The age of the tomb is uncertain, but it was probably built long after the Hebrew prophet's time. However, the place is now sacred, so sacred that pilgrims from afar visit it.

"I rode up the steep, narrow streets of the village to the mosque," writes the Herald's correspondent, "dismounted and entered the yard. A crowd of excited Arabs quickly surrounded me. I explained to a priest that I had come to see the grave of Jonah, and with a motion of the hand I made him understand that I should reward him. It is moving my shoes, I followed the priest through a dark passageway.

"Then he pointed to a wall and said the tomb was just beyond. I wished to enter the prayer room, from which the tomb itself might be seen, but the place was considered far too sacred for my profane feet. The few Christians who have been permitted to see the tomb may only look through a small window into a dark chamber, in which a cloth-covered mound is barely discernible. It is said that no Moslem will enter the inner shrine."

DRINKING IN EUROPE.

Munich Heads the List in the Quantity of Beer Consumed.

Norwegians are one of the most temperate of northern nations, consuming but 40% pints of beer and 4% of brandy per head of population yearly.

The Dane drinks on the average 150 pints of beer, but little wine, and only 36 pints of brandy each year. The Swede manages to consume 94 pints of beer and 13 of spirits. The Russian drinks 7/8 pints of vodka and the same amount of beer. The Frenchman, however, takes 100 pints of wine, 15 of beer, 48 of brandy. The Britisher soothes himself with 9 pints of whisky or gin, 3 of claret and 228 of beer.

The Dutchman will drink 54 pints of beer and 12 of brandy. Taking every German province to obtain an average, it is found that the German consumes 187 1/2 pints of beer, 10% of wine and 9% of spirits. In Munich, however, the average amount per head rises to 850 1/2 pints, being the highest of any province, while the lowest average obtains in the northern province of Alsatia. Here the inhabitants are satisfied with only 144 pints of beer per head.

The Italian is the least of all addicted to alcoholic beverages, taking only 3 pints of beer, 1 1/2 of alcoholic beverages and 144 of wine per head.—Pearson's Weekly.

Star Colors.

Professor Edward C. Pickering of Harvard has been able to show that Ptolemy had an excellent eye for color values; that William Herschel had a strong sense of red, but was a little weak on the blues; that the noted astronomer Stell of the tenth century, was another who had a good color vision; that of various other ancient astronomers some were weak on the reds and some on the blues. His assertions are based on the practical certainty that the color of the stars has not changed in these centuries. Most of the old astronomers have left records of the colors of the various stars, and these values he applied to standards established by taking the average color value of certain stars given by a number of Harvard observers.—Saturday Evening Post.

Able Assistant.

The small son of a clergyman who was noted for his tiresome sermons overheard two friends of his father saying how dry they were and how hard it was to keep awake during them. The following Sunday while the minister was preaching he was astounded to see his son throwing pebbles at the congregation from the gallery. The clergyman frowned angrily at him, when the boy piped out in a clear trifle voice:

"It's all right, pop. You go on preaching. I'm keeping them awake."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Neglected Negative.

"A young man," said the ready-made philosopher, "should learn to say 'no.'"

"Yes," replied Farmer Corntassel. "I feel that my boyJosh ought to take at least that much trouble. When I ask him to help around the place he simply gives me a haughty stare."—Washington Star.
